Polly's Place is a center for victims of domestic abuse. It is not an emergency shelter, but a place to help women and children feel empowered.

In addition to looking at how to get out of abusive relationships and identifying those patterns of abuse. Polly's Place also offers case management services, food and clothing assistance, references to legal aid, help with employment as well as inviting speakers to talk about various related topics and issues.

For more information on Polly's Place, call (269) 687-9822.
